An open letter to Delegates and Vendors,

In respect to COVID-19, we have been keeping a very close eye on the situation globally as Macgregor Communications operate events across North America.

The health and safety of our community is of paramount importance. This is a developing situation and we are doing our utmost to offer clear communication on an ongoing basis as matters evolve. We will ensure, that all relevant parties are communicated any further information as immediately as possible.

We appreciate your understanding that all required measures by Macgregor Communications and the Veterinary Education Today team are being taken to protect our delegate community, exhibiting partners, and staff. We are hopeful that by October 1-2-3, 2020, this crisis will be resolved, and we will continue business as usual. Stay healthy – Stay safe – Never Stop Learning.

Sincerely,

Lee Baker
